SUNDT BREAKS GROUND ON SOUTHEAST ARLINGTON RECREATION CENTER

ARLINGTON, Texas (February 4, 2019) – Sundt Construction, Inc. (www.sundt.com) broke ground Friday on the Southeast Arlington Recreation Center.

The 39,000-square-foot recreation center will sit on a 12.8-acre site located at 1100 Mansfield Webb Road, adjacent to Webb Community Park. The project will include a gymnasium, fitness and weights area, aerobics and dance studio, classrooms and childcare area.

“This is a great project for our team,” said Eric Hedlund, Senior Vice President and Texas District Manager for Sundt’s Building Group. “Our firm thrives in a team environment where we can be an integral part of a project’s success. This facility gives us the opportunity to do that, and we’re excited to deliver this new recreation center to the community.”

The project also includes an outdoor aquatics feature, adventure playground, skate park and walking trails. The project is expected to be completed in 2020.

The groundbreaking celebration included representatives from the City of Arlington, Sundt and Barker Rinker Seacat architecture firm.

Sundt has 50 years and nearly $3 billion of project work throughout Texas, with offices in Fort Worth, Irving, San Antonio and El Paso. The company is also currently working on the University of North Texas Biomedical Engineering Addition in Denton and recently broke ground on the Denton County Administration Complex Phase III.
